In Memoriam

We, the Seniors, dedicate the 1964 Flood Tide to the memory of MR. WILLIAM ALLEN, whose civic and educational interests were displayed by his enthusiastic participation in community activities and the education he desired for his children.

Administration

SUPERINTENDENT JOHN F. HAYWARD

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

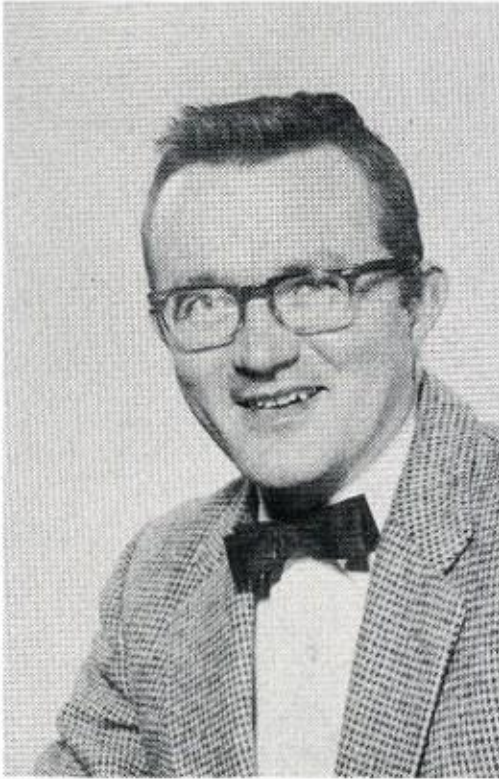

The most significant change that has taken place in the Petersburg High School program in the last decade is the realization of the importance of education on the part of the boys. In 1954 while there were a few more boys than girls in attendance, only 6 boys were on the Honor Roll compared with 12 girls. At the semester mark in 1964, 23 boys and 20 girls earned the high grades necessary for placement on the Honor Roll.

In the old days scholarship was held in low repute by the boys of P.H.S. An honor student was considered an oddball, an egghead, a square. Today the attitude is completely reversed. The young men on the Honor Roll are the leaders. For the first time in history the Viking Coach has no eligibility problems--7 out of 10 of the Vikings are honor students.

The complex economy of today and tomorrow demands and rewards men and women with self-discipline, courage and a high level of education. The boys of 1964 have no more brains than the boys of 1954, 1944, or 1934, but they have learned that intellectual achievement is the status symbol of the 60's.

Senior Play

"Our Town," a three act play by Thornton Wilder, was presented by the "Class of '64" on November 26 and 27 in the high school auditorium. The play was directed by Mrs. Muriel Cearley.

The story takes place in a small New Hampshire town named Grover's Corners in the early 1900's. The action mainly concerns the Gibbs and Webb families. Dr. Gibbs (Steve Ness) and his wife, Julia (Kirsti Eide), have two children, George (Roger Heimdahl) and his little sister, Rebecca (Nancy Temple). Their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webb (Doug Kalk and Bonnie Longworth), have two Children named Emily (Darla Ryan) and Wally (Al Lund).

The background of Grover's Corners, a typical small town, and its inhabitants is given by the stage manager (Henry Allen), who is also a part of the action. Through him the audience is introduced to many town characters, such as Howie Newsome (Carl Nordgren), the milkman, Joe Crowell (Roger Fleek), the paper boy, and Joe Stoddard (Dan Wanberg), the local undertaker. Others reveal their personalities themselves: Mrs. Soames (Patsy Magill), town gossip, Simon Stimson (Clifford Roundtree), town drunk, Constable Warren (Bill Olson), local policeman, and Sam Craig (Dave Crawford), a relative of Mrs. Gibbs. In one scene, he is assisted by Professor Willard (Jim Reid) of the state university, who gives information on the town and the surrounding country, and Mr. Webb, editor of the Grover's Corners Sentinel, the local newspaper, Mr. Webb answers various questions about town social life offered by members of the audience Woman in the Balcony (Gail Elkins), Man in the Auditorium (Sig Mathisen), Lady in the Box (Lynn Stromdahl). The stage manager then helps the audience to become better acquainted with the Gibbs' and the Webbs.

The love between George Gibbs and Emily Webb is shown from their first awareness of one another until their marriage at the end of the second act.

The unusual third act takes place in the cemetery overlooking Grover's Corners. Emily's death and her consequent realization of the pettiness and the fleeting happiness of life explain the basic feeling the author attempted to express---that truth is to be found only in the future.

"I don't know why on earth I should be crying."

"George, I've decided to raise your spending money twenty-five cents a week."

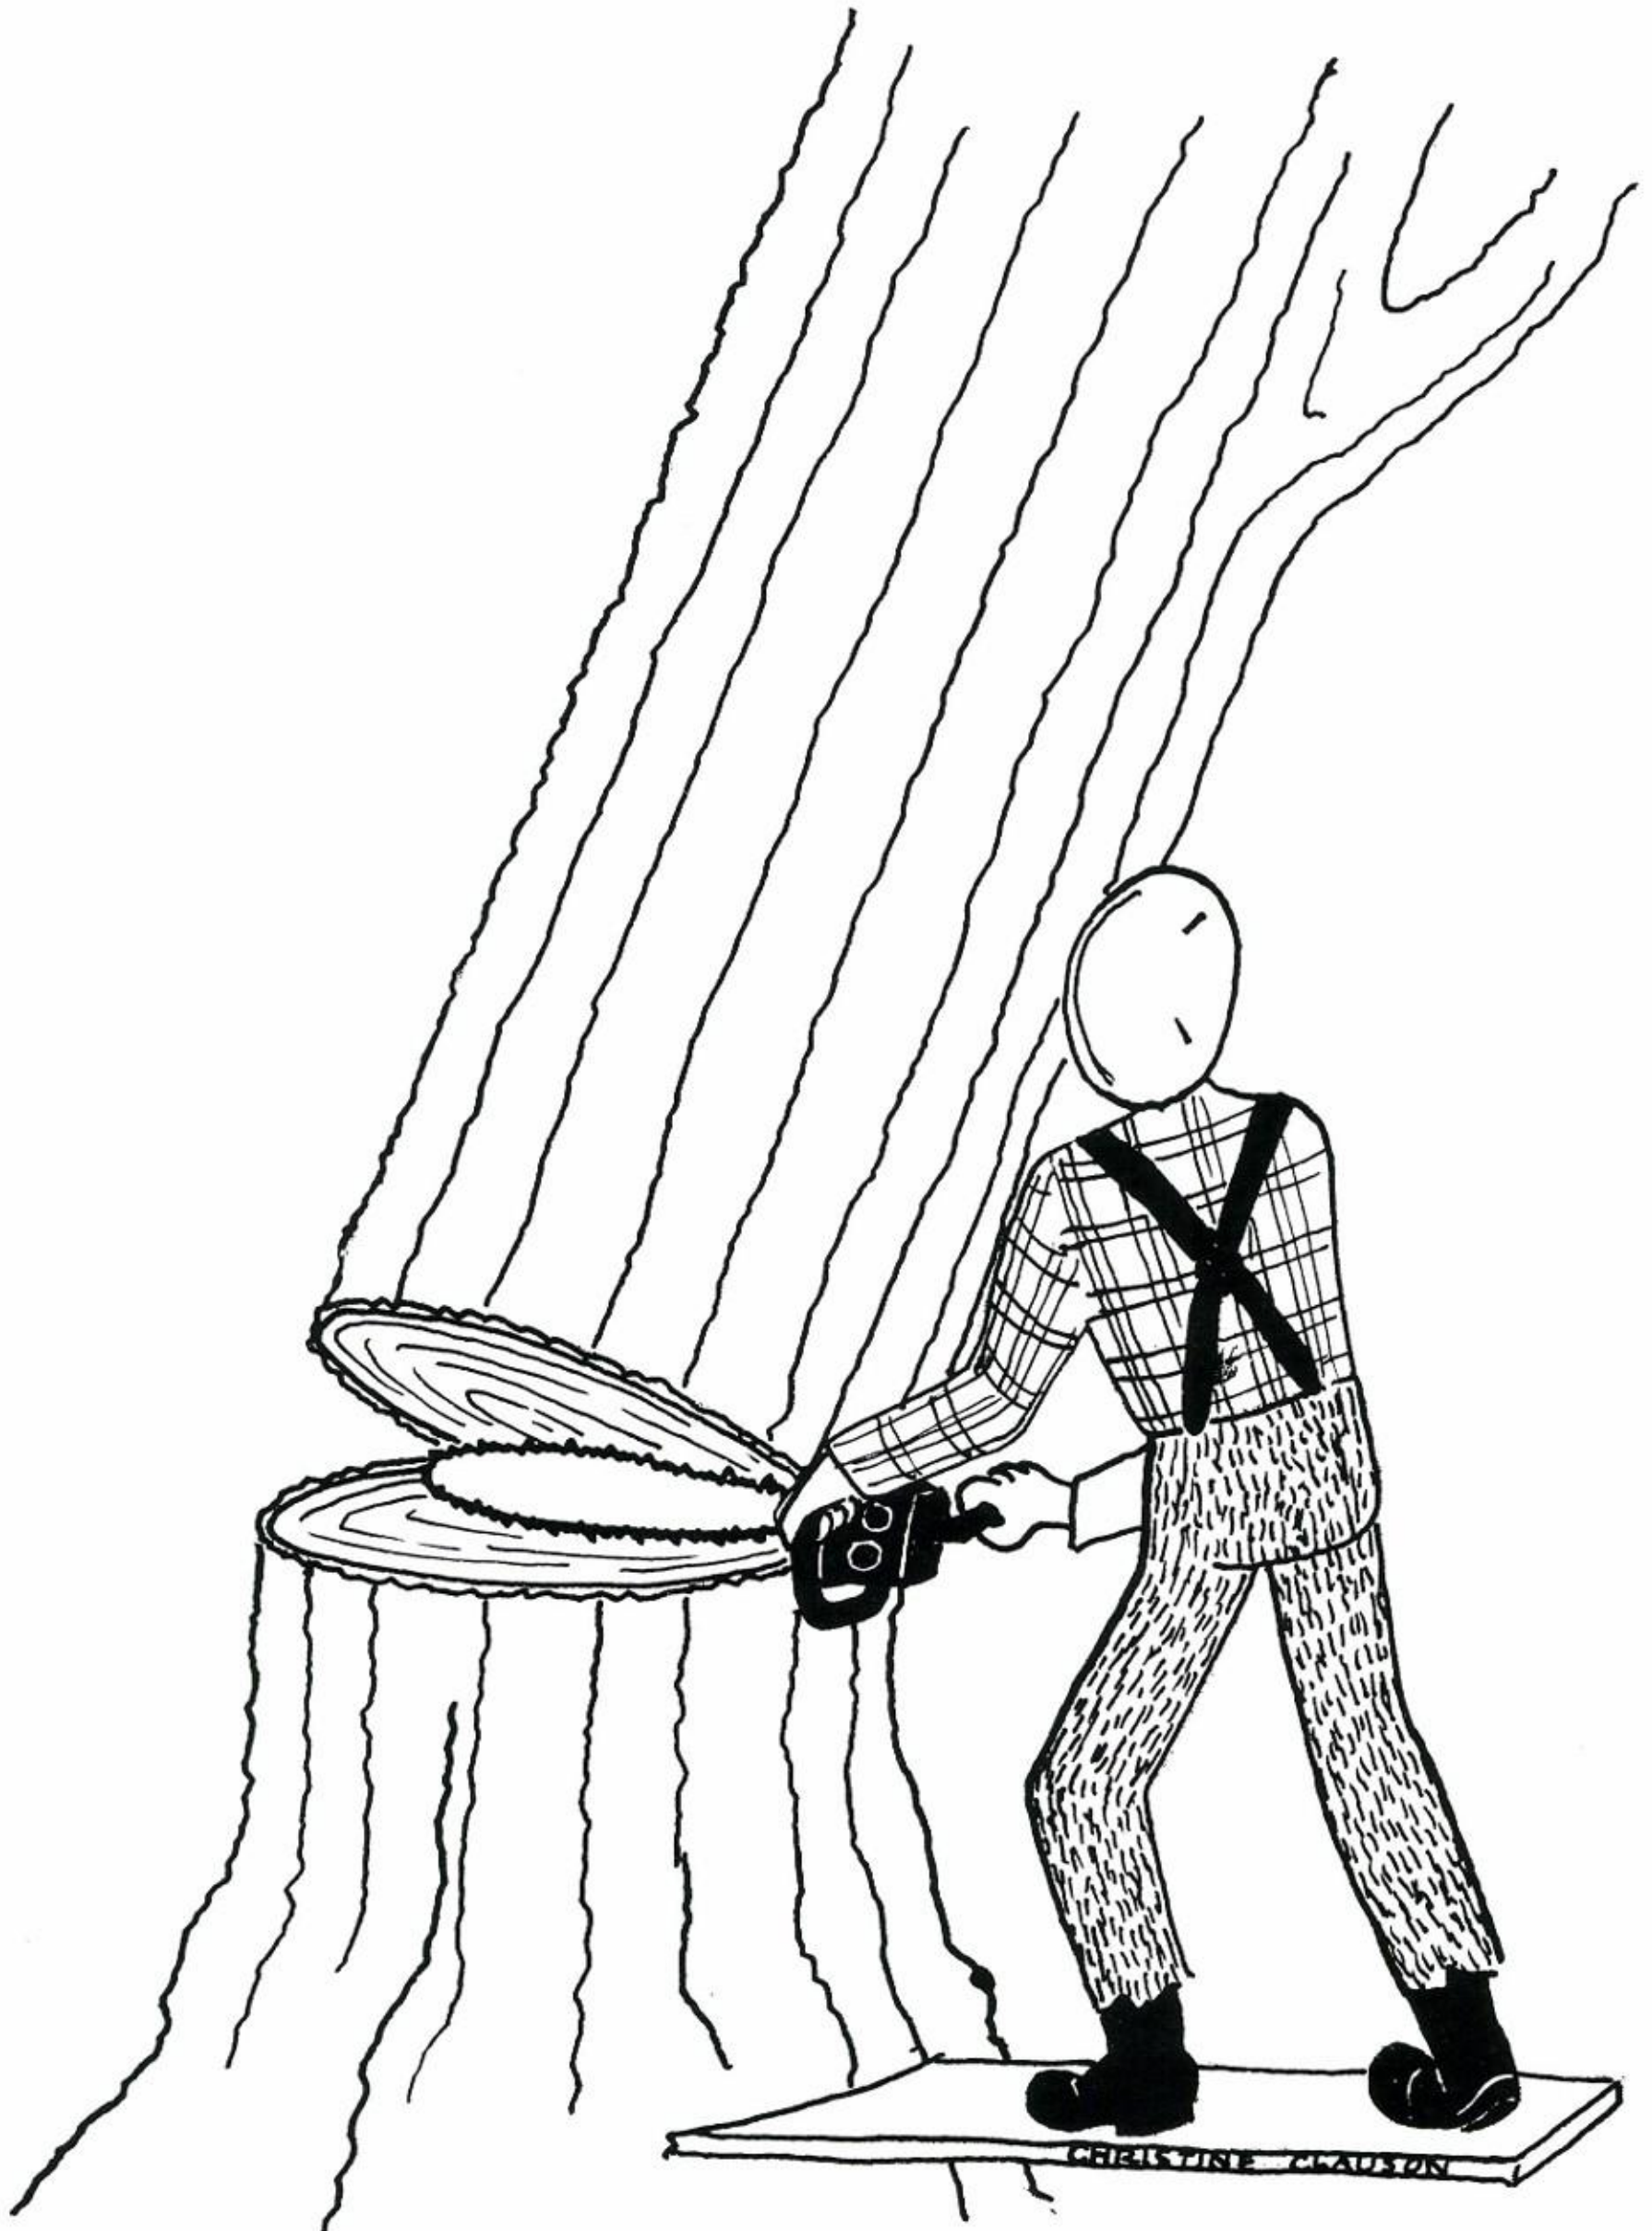

"Know what I like best in the world? Money!"

Prompters and stage crew: Holly Tate, Troy Heikkila, Irving Katasse, Rick Whitethorn, Kathryn Kvernvik.

QUALITY AND SERVICE FIRST

THE TRADING UNION, INC.

Petersburg

is centrally located in the S. E. Alaska Panhandle at the head of Wrangell Narrows and the mouth of the Stikine River.

Entrance

to S. E. Alaska by road, through British Columbia, will be via the planned Stikine River Highway (now being surveyed) which will terminate at Petersburg.

Timber

harvest totaled 100 million board feet last year for pulp and sawmills.

Expectations

are that 100 million board feet will be cut annually in the two million acre Petersburg ranger district in the next ten years.

Running

time to all fishing grounds is shorter for the fisherman from Petersburg's fine natural harbor at the mouth of Wrangell Narrows.

Seafood

processed each year--halibut, salmon, cod, shellfish--totals 16 to 20 million pounds.

Best

deer hunting in Petersburg District with the annual take about 3600 animals--more than rest of S. E. Alaska Districts combined.

Under

supervision of local Big Game Hunters get trophy size brown bear, black bear, goats, etc.

Remember

if you are planning an industrial site, want to harvest the natural resources, or enjoy a vacation with hunting and fishing, come see us.

Good

harbor, good municipal services, good schools and central location.
